Charming mix of the Great Silk Road, magnificent Islamic architecture, soviet influence and warm hospitality, this is what you read the most about Uzbekistan. Today encountering transformative changes and opening to the world, Uzbekistan is ready to show more of itself. That is why besides diving into new and old history of Uzbekistan through visiting the ancient cities Samarkand, Bukhara and Khiva, experiencing rich culture and enjoying warm local hospitality, we are also going to discover and learn new socio-economic dynamics from insider perspective with representatives of academia, civil society and decision makers.

Along the Great Silk Road we discover the treasures of Uzbekistan

Once an ancient net of trade roads connected East and West; starting from China, it went through Eurasia and ended in Europe. Caravans and ships carried diverse commodities, but also knowledge, which catalyzed huge exchange and development. Since the precious good was silk, it was called the "Great Silk Road". Samarkand, Bukhara and Khiva were the centers and crosspoints on this road, their gravity attracted travellers, merchants, scholars from all over the world. Today this mixed atmosphere is still alive in small and narrow streets, in colorful bazaars, magnificent architecture and in people of Uzbekistan. Within our tour we will visit those ancient cities and will try to grasp how this historical and cultural heritage is shaping modern Uzbekistan.

While diving into these fairytale cities, we will nevertheless have a chance to experience one of the biggest environmental catastrophes of 21st Century - the shrinking Aral Sea. We will see the ghost of the sea, face its consequences and meet the people who are struggling with the expanding desert on the ground.

New Dynamics

Since 2017 Uzbekistan is encountering transformative changes; it is opening its borders to neighboring countries and simplifying visa procedures. The government initiated active dialogue between state and its citizens, it is openly speaking about problems and showing readiness to work on solutions. The government has started the large-scale reform processes in different sectors and is showing a big political will. During our tour meetings we will focus on socio, cultural and economic aspects of those transformations from insider perspectives; understand current realities and learn more personal stories.

Nature highlights during our tour: swimming in the Aral Sea, camping in the desert and hiking in the mountains

All the impressions, insights and discussions from the tours and meetings we will digest in the diverse nature of Uzbekistan. Our first destination will be the Aral Sea, where we will have a chance to swim. Furthermore we will enjoy a beautiful night sky in the desert, and close the tour in the most scenic mountain areas of Uzbekistan - the Chimgan Mountains.

Greater Chimgan Mountains

Located 2 hours away from Tashkent, these mountains are the most magnetic area for hiking, climbing and outdoor activities of Uzbekistan.

The Aral Sea

Being once fourth-largest lake in the world, it has been shrinking over 60 years and now has declined to 10% of its original size. Visiting the Aral Sea is dramatic and at the same time a spectacular experience.

Karakalpakstan State Museum of Art

The Karakalpakstan State Museum of Art named after I.V. Savitsky - hosts the world's second largest collection of Russian avant garde art. It is also home to one of the largest collections of archeological objects and folk, applied and contemporary art originating from Central Asia.

Samarkand

Samarkand is one of the oldest cities in Central Asia and served also the capital of the Timurid Empire. The city was for centuries the intercultural center of excellence, where along with Islam the students studied astronomy and mathematics. Now Samarkand is an important cultural, economic and educational city of Uzbekistan.

Buchara

Once Buchara was an important center on the Great Silk Road. In the Middle Ages, the city reached its cultural and scientific bloom and became a major center of Islamic culture. Today the city accumulates a number of mosques, as well as the tombs of many Islamic saints.

Khiva

Khiva is a well-preserved oasis city near the Karakum desert. The historical significance of the city goes far back in time, when the Great Silk Road was not existed. Khiva was the first city in Uzbekistan, listed in the UNESCO World Heritage objects in 1990 and was founded over 2,500 years ago.
