Tour Title:

Women in Pakistan

Tour Subtitle:

Digital Short Trip

Tour Date:

06. March 2021

Come and join us on our third interactive digital tour through Pakistan. On the occasion of the upcoming International Women's Day we will focus on the state of women in Pakistan profiling positive cases but at the same highlighting the challenges that Pakistani women are confronted with. The staff of our Pakistani partner organisation Individual Land, headed by Gulmina Bilal, will introduce us to initiatives and personalities that fight for women rights and political representation.

We will speak about the role of women in the initial phase of politics after the foundation of the state, evolving from the presence of only two women in the first Constituent Assembly of Pakistan in 1947 to the election of the first female leader in the Muslim world in 1988, Benazir Bhutto. Further, we will focus on the evolution of Pakistani women's professional roles e.g. in the police, army and civil society. And we will shed light on challenges of patriarchy, abuse and violation of women's fundamental rights.

Following our first events on December 28 and February 6, Individual Land's team which comes from all over the country and speaks a broad variety of languages and dialects, would like to take you on yet another interactive short trip through Pakistan in cooperation with Alsharq REISE. After visiting metropolises like Karachi, Lahore or Islamabad and meeting people in remote valleys like the Kalasha in the Hindu Kush region, this time we focus on women struggles in Pakistan.

You can ask your questions at any time and enter into dialogue with the guides. Speaking of which: We are most looking forward to the humorous, self-deprecating and infectiously inspiring way in which our partners will present their exciting country.

Content Left Column:

A Muslim Zion, a place of longing for mountain climbers, an artificially created state: the attributions generally made to Pakistan could hardly be any more different. The country has to offer so much more than the common associations of religious fanaticism, terror or the conflict with India. On this virtual journey, we want to take you to a country we know far too little about in Germany - and which, despite all its political challenges, is characterised by beautiful landscapes, artefacts of the entire human history and an open, hospitable society.

Content Right Column:

We will meet people who speak different languages and dialects and belong to different ethnic groups and religious communities. People who are fighting together for a better Pakistan, for more tolerance and understanding between the different parties. People who care for traumatised journalists, mediate between hostile groups, work in the field of extremism prevention, in youth work and adult education. We are looking forward to taking you on this tour with our inspiring Pakistani hosts!
